I would like to start this weeks' newsletter by saying THANK YOU. Thank you to the individuals, community groups, Tawa community people, Hampton Hill School staff who were on the ground searching, people who were supporting Xion's whanau and all of the Facebook communication, emails and texts that kept us all informed.

If you haven't already heard, over the weekend Xion Flaws went missing early Sunday evening. This was a very anxious time for family, friends and everyone in the Tawa community.

Thankfully he was found safe and sound (although a little scratched) up in the bush Monday morning. We were all relieved to get the news. I love our community! What amazing people and an amazing place to be a part of! What a fantastic start to the term! Beautiful weather, happy children and buzzing classrooms! There has been a really great feel at the school this week with families, students and teachers reconnecting and having a good old catch up!

Learning to Learn@uLearn 2018

The Board of Trustees and a local Tawa body provided an amazing opportunity for Abbey Corrich, Amy Hardyment and myself to attend uLearn held in Auckland over the holiday break. Our purpose for going was simple, we were keen to learn more about future focused learning and what this might look like in the future, what skills are required or affirm the redesign of a localised curriculum we have been working on over the course of the year different reference groups in our community, which is based on the Ministry of Educations' New Zealand Curriculum. There was real depth around future focused learning dispositions which are required of people (big and little) in the 21st century and moving into a future. Especially with digital technologies and communications advancing rapidly, we need to ensure we are teaching our children something that Google can't! Below is a blurb that best describes the opportunities we embraced as a team at uLearn and look forward to sharing more of our learnings with our teaching team and all of you!

uLearn provides an opportunity for teachers and educational leaders to participate in, and contribute to, high-quality developmental professional learning experiences. The conference is part of a learning continuum and ongoing cycle of development that helps build a national professional learning community across the education sector. This is critical for developing and extending the vision and capability of school leaders and teachers.

Again, we would like to acknowledge and thank the board for the opportunity to attend uLearn and to bring this back to our learning community.

The well-being of our community: It is important that students and teachers are looking after themselves before and after school hours. Teachers have meetings on Monday and Tuesday afternoons starting at 3.15- 4.30pm and Thursday mornings from 8am-8.30am. I strongly encourage teachers to leave school soon after to be with family and friends. Little tools like this will keep our staff energised for teaching and learning programmes that we provide at school. With our gorgeous children, making sure they have plenty of rest and sleep is important. I know that this time of the year children are excited with the build up to Christmas and some will be anxious about changes heading into the New Year. Talk to your children and keep us in the loop so we can support at school. Here are some links to websites around mindfulness practices that you can try with your families. <https://smilingmind.com.au/>.
